History

The R.L. Harris Dam of Lake Wedowee was completed in 1982. The two rivers that flow into Lake Wedowee are the Little Tallapoosa and the Tallapoosa (locally called the Big River). These rivers originate across the Georgia state line and join at the Hwy 48 bridge.

Lake Wedowee spans 9,870 acres; it's 29 miles long and has a 367 mile shoreline. When the lake is at full capacity, it is 793 feet above sea level. Alabama Power Company controls lake levels and typically raises the lake level by early to mid April. Lake depth reaches a maximum of approximately 121 feet. The lake is known for its crystal waters, although long periods of rain will temporarily stain the area near the upper end of both rivers.

Alabama is a “buyer beware” state; therefore, keep in mind the differences between seasonal and year around water levels. Wedowee Lake & Lands Realty's definition of year around water is: a lot that allows the owner to have a floating dock with the ability to anchor a boat year round, as well as the ability to navigate to a larger body of water from the dock.
